

THIRD CALLED SESSION OPENS

Senator W. L. Dean Chosen
President Pro Tem of Senate.

Austin, Tex., Aug. 21.—In accordance with the call issued by acting governor W. P. Hobby, the third called session of the 55th legislature convened this morning promptly at 10 o'clock, speaker Fuller calling the house to order, while the senate was assembled by president pro tem, J. C. McNeely. A quorum developed in the senate but only 24 members answered roll call in the house, 41 short of a quorum.

Under the rules the house can only adjourn from day to day, consequently the house adjourned until tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. It is not expected a quorum will be present until next Monday or Tuesday.

Dean President Pro Tem.
Senator W. L. Dean of Walker county, was elected president pro tem of the senate and will preside in the trial of the impeachment proceedings against the governor. Senator Dean is a prominent attorney.

Pardons Recommended by Board.
Eighty per cent of the more than 100 pardons granted by governor Ferguson from July 24 to the day before the opening of the legislature, were recommended by the board of pardons, according to Judge William H. Blakeley, chairman of the board. Judge Blakeley said that included in those pardons recommended were all of those serving life terms. These pardons had been recommended for several months past and most of them were the result of an investigation recently made by members of the board of pardons.

This statement was made by Judge Blakeley because of a resolution included in the house and which was laid over by a close vote, providing for the appointment of a committee of three to ascertain the conditions upon which these pardons were granted, including those who applied for the pardons to governor Ferguson.

Interest Postponed.
By the adoption of a concurrent resolution by the legislature just before final adjournment of the second called session, relief has been extended to citizens in the central western portion of Texas by postponing the date of payment of interest due on these citizens in central and west Texas. The matter, however, is left to the discretion of the land commissioner, who has previously indicated his desire to defer the enforcement of the payment of such interest on school lands.

OUT FOR FREE OVER BRIDGE

Juarez Business Men, Hosts to El Pasoans, Ask for Half of Fund.

Directors of the chamber of commerce and members of the Rotary club were guests Friday noon at a luncheon given in their honor by the Juarez chamber of commerce at the B. & E. cafe, on Commerce street. More than 100 prominent business men of both cities were present.

Business men of Juarez, in delivering short talks, announced that a movement had been started in Juarez to raise money among the business men for the purpose of constructing an international bridge between the two cities, which, when completed, will be opened to the people of the two nations free of toll. They stated that half of the fund would be raised by Juarez business men and that they hoped that the other half would be raised by the business men of El Paso.

Happy at Cordial Relations.
Angel Martinez, president of the Juarez chamber, who presided at the luncheon, extended on behalf of the business men of Juarez a cordial welcome to the El Pasoans. He said the business men of Juarez appreciated the fact that cordial relations again existed between the two cities and both nations. Much good, he said, will be accomplished by the cooperation of the chambers of commerce of the two cities.

Wishes Bring Tourists.
John M. Wyatt, president of the El Paso chamber of commerce, said: "This session of the happy realization of a long dream, that the citizens of the two cities who have the same interests at heart, have renewed their close relations. I have just returned from a trip to New Mexico, and while at Santa Fe last Sunday I counted approximately 100 touring cars from nearly every state in the union. Hotels at both Santa Fe and Albuquerque were taxed to their utmost by these tourists and it was difficult for our party to find accommodations. Those cities are not points of historical interest that Juarez and El Paso have. There is not a city on the American continent that has more interest to the tourist than Juarez. I believe that our local chamber of commerce should make a strong effort to direct the transcontinental auto tourist to our cities on the Rio Grande. Your interests are ours, and ours are yours, and we should cooperate closely. El Paso's chamber of commerce welcomes you and will throw open its doors at any time to you. Every assistance we can lend to the Juarez chamber we will gladly render."

Krakauer Extends Rotary Greeting.
Robert Krakauer, president of the El Paso Rotary, made a brief talk in Spanish to the luncheon, in which he said that the business men and public of El Paso were at all times anxious to do whatever possible to work with the Juarez commerce chamber to further the mutual interests of the two cities. He said the getting together of the business men of El Paso and Juarez makes for a new bond of relations. He said that Americans realize that Mexico is one of its greatest assets in trade expansion.

Speaking of the proposition of the Juarez men to construct an international bridge between the two cities, David Alarcon, secretary of the Juarez, said that on Thursday the business men had started to raise

RAISE RATES FOR FREIGHT

Commerce Chamber Informs Shippers Steamships
Raise 15 Percent.

Information regarding increased water freight rates from New York to Galveston is being furnished members of the chamber of commerce by Andrew W. Deever, traffic manager, in a letter mailed Friday morning. The letter follows:

The Interstate commerce commission in refusing the appeal of the railroads for an increase of 12 percent on all freight rates, with the exception of those located in trunk line territory, ruled that water lines might increase their rates for boats in any case not to exceed all rail rates. The New York-Galveston steamship line, taken advantage of this decision in their favor and while not increasing the rates to the limit permitted, have raised the class commodity rates New York to Galveston approximately 15 percent, effective September 1, 1917. And on the same date through class rates from New York and Seaboard territory will be canceled to not only this city but commercial centers in this state, such as Dallas, Fort Worth, Waco and San Antonio. After the date mentioned the rates from New York to El Paso will be a combination of the rates to and from Galveston and from Seaboard territory, the addition of the local rates to New York.

Table of Rates.
The rates New York to El Paso effective September 15 will be:
A 225 325 165 5 140 110 117
The maximum class rates from Seaboard territory to El Paso will be:
A 245 205 165 144 117 122
The through carload commodity rates made effective April 30, 1917, from Seaboard territory to this city have not been disturbed.

their quota of the fund for the bridge. The last part of the duty of the Juarez men to assist El Paso in building the bridge, each city to bear an equal amount of the cost. It is the business men of Juarez who are interested," he said. "To build a bridge over which the people of the two nations can travel without paying toll. We are ready to do our part and hope to have the bridge completed as an early date. We feel sure that you of El Paso will cooperate in this movement. It is a shame to have to see the people of the two cities pay toll to cross the river. We will each other or cross the Rio Grande for business purposes."

Chambers Will Cooperate.
George J. Clements, secretary of the El Paso chamber of commerce, said: "There is much in common between the chambers of commerce of both cities. We realize that among our greatest assets in the trade world are Juarez, Chihuahua and the whole state of Mexico. We must work together. It has been a long dream of the El Paso chamber to bring about pleasant and profitable trade relations. The time has come when the United States, and especially the states along the border, must work with Mexico."

The speaker mentioned the organizations of chambers of commerce at Juarez, Chihuahua, Tuxtepec and other cities in Mexico and that the local chamber will be glad to work for the interest of these organizations.

Must Get Together in History.
R. Saldana, secretary of the Juarez chamber, said: "This is the only time in history that there is a chance to see such friendly relations continue. He spoke of the internal strife in Mexico during the past four years, saying that because of the revolution the nation was not able to assist itself out of its own domain. But now work at reconstruction has started. We are certain that permanent peace has come. We feel sure that cordial relations between our two local cities and the two nations are also permanent."

Offers Mutual Help.
"Although we appreciate the fact of our lack of finances, we feel sure that we will be of assistance to the organizations of El Paso. It is necessary that we do something for the interest of both cities. We desire your financial help. The principal thing we want to do is to complete the building of the free international bridge. We feel sure El Paso will do its part. Another thing we want to do is to pay the wages of our strikers. Also, we want to see a strong bank established in Juarez, in which we would have El Paso participants."

Judge Adrian Pool spoke of the great revenue Mexico would receive from a highway from El Paso to Juarez to Mexico City. The speaker spoke of the Texas-Kansas-El Paso highway, saying that it was a completed it would be the only all-year route for tourists, a road that could be traveled throughout the winter. "When this route is completed," he said, "there will be an average of 150 cars a day travel through El Paso. These roads will be a benefit to you unless a road is built from Juarez to Mexico City."

Sees Revenue From Tourists.
"Tourists are tired of touring through Colorado and California. They want to tour Mexico. They want to build a road there will be a half million cars a year pass through Juarez to Mexico City. These cars will pay toll. This toll will not be expended. This will give you a revenue of $2,000,000 a year from tourist traffic."

Suggests Quick Action.
"You should get your government behind the road project. The cities along the route will become interested and assist. For they will receive a revenue from the tourists. If you don't build this road it will be built from Laredo to Mexico City and the cities along the route there will be getting the revenue that you are entitled to and will receive it. It will then connect with the Texas-Kansas-El Paso highway."

Canadian Road Ends Here.
Judge Pool spoke of the revenue the states of Colorado and California have derived from tourist travel. He said it was their greatest revenue. The speaker said that a road from Canada to El Paso would open to completed and it could be extended to Mexico City it would be the greatest highway in the world.

Short talks were made by R. L. Farrar, Charles M. Newman, Edgar W. Kayser, Rep. Fuller, Swift and others.
